DRACCOON receives two Stevie Awards

Last Friday the cloud solution from the Regensburg software company DRACCOON received the gold Stevie Awards for “Company of the Year – Computer Software” and “Best Cloud Platform”. The top-level business award is awarded once a year by an expert jury of 50 executives.

Today DRACCOON is used by many leading companies in Europe that work with sensitive data. The highly secure platform-independent software has highest security standards. With the GDPR-compliant software solution, data can be comfortably and securely exchanged on all end devices. With the open API DRACCOON can be easily integrated into all existing systems. It offers different workflow-integrations – from secure e-mail communication to complete modernization of the file services.

“We are very pleased to receive the Gold Stevie Award for ‘Company of the Year – Computer Software’ and ‘Best Cloud Platform’. They confirm our daily work and our vision of a world free of data misuse”, Arved Graf von Stackelberg, one of the two managing directors, happily emphasizes.

Every year the Stevie Awards receive over 12,000 applications from organizations from more than 70 nations. The renowned business award acknowledges organizations of all kinds and sizes as well as the people behind them and honors excellent working performances all over the world. For the German Stevie Awards all German companies are eligible. The winners receive awards in many award categories, ranging from Company of the Year to the best customer service and HR solutions to new products and effective marketing campaigns. Creativity is also sought-after, as the German Stevie Awards also award prizes for business-related e-books, websites, apps or videos.
